

Raising awareness of kidney disease

8 March 2016

Health Minister Jack Snelling and representatives from Kidney Health Australia visited the Women's and Children's Hospital's paediatric Renal Department and facilities on 8 March.

The visit was timed ahead of World Kidney Day on 10 March, to help raise awareness of kidney disease, which affects around 1.7 million Australian adults.

A healthy lifestyle from a young age is vital in helping to reduce the risk factors in preventable kidney damage.
