

Signing up to address domestic and family violence

10 May

The Women's and Children's Health Network is working towards becoming accredited as a White Ribbon Workplace.

On 10 May, Chief Executive Officer Naomi Dwyer signed a Statement of Commitment on behalf of the Health Network.

The statement is a pledge to encourage greater understanding, knowledge and action around violence prevention within our Health Network. It signals our recognition that violence against women is a human rights issue that must be addressed in the workplace.

The Health Network is working towards achieving accreditation by 28 February 2017.
